U.S. Elections May Seriously Affect Canadian Treaties

If Democrats Gain Control in Both Houses, Sockeye Pact and Other Unconfirmed Agreements May Be Altered—Hawley-Smoot Tariff Amendments Possible Except for Agriculture

Border Regulations May Be Shelved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Democrats may gain control of the House of Representatives in next Tuesday's Congressional election. It is conceded here, that party should take from the Republicans the necessary fifty-four seats, the unity of sorts afforded the United States Government through a Republican administration and control of both Houses would be disturbed.

An uncertain situation in Washington might be reflected to some degree in international dealings. The administration would be hampered in carrying out its legislative programme and to the very small extent of Canadian interest in that programme the Dominion is directly interested in Tuesday's decision.

One bill of some moment to Canada is now awaiting action by Congress. This is the measure for the unification of the border patrol and its important content from the Canadian viewpoint is the clause which prohibits entry into the United States except at points designated by the President. There is no certainty that Congress, as at present constituted, will pass the bill. In fact, it is probable it will be tracked in the Senate. A Democratic victory would add to the probability of its defeat.

Three Canadian-United States conventions now await ratification by the Senate. These are the halibut treaty, the sockeye and treaty, and the convention for beautification of Niagara Falls. All of these are ex parte matters in Congress.

REVISION PROMISED
Should the Democrats get control of the House of Representatives, they would, according to their leaders, immediately undertake a revision of the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act. But they also announced that rates on agricultural products would not be reduced and, in consequence, any action they might take would not be of very great importance to the Dominion.

The St. Lawrence waterway project is not a party issue in the United States. Except as the Republican Government would be watered by a Democratic House, observers agree the status of the project would remain unchanged.

Democratic prophets who have no doubt about the result of Tuesday's election go on to predict a triumph for their party in 1932 and a Democrat in the White House. They base their corollary prediction upon history. Three times in the past when Republicans were in power, in an off-year election, the Democrats carried the presidential election two years later.

A change of the entire Government in 1932 might conceivably have a considerable unpredictable effect upon Canadian-United States relations. But while all signs indicate a gain for the Democrats on November 4, there is of course a large question whether they will get fifty-four more seats.

COST OF WORK IN B.C. TOPS MILLION MARK

Port Alberni and Duncan Complete Agreements With Province

UNEMPLOYMENT DROPS AS WORK INSTITUTED

Seven new agreements signed by the Government yesterday brought the aggregate work programme in thirty-two British Columbia municipalities up to $1,238,650, of which the province and the Dominion each pay one-quarter, and the municipalities one-half.

Sixty-one municipalities have now reported under the scheme, and fifty-eight agreements have been prepared, eighteen being now in the mails for municipal signatures.

At the same time, the ratio of unemployed in these areas has fallen to 3.4 per cent, the lowest point since the Federal plan was instituted.

The seven agreements signed by Premier Tolmie yesterday gave $52,500 as the Federal-provincial joint aid under the plan, and approved of work estimated to cost $105,000.

The agreements were as follows:
North Vancouver City, $22,000; Richmond, $17,200; Port Alberni, $5,500; Duncan, $3,500; Quesnel, $1,200; Mission, $2,000, and Smithers, $1,000.

Huge Gusher Blows Wild; Oklahoma City Threatened by Fire

Gas From New Oil Well Creates Serious Hazard—Thousands Abandon Homes—Schools Are Closed and State Troops Patrol Area

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—More than one-third of the citizens of Oklahoma City's 185,000 citizens turned to cold fare today as the Morgan Petroleum Company's No. 1 Stout well was blowing wild into the air and creating the worst fire hazard any city has ever faced.

The well is making 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, with a brisk wind whipping this flow over the south and east sides of the city. A spark or a match anywhere within a mile of the well would ignite the gas or oil vapors and the flames would spread as fast as the wind.

Before daybreak the city police and firemen, assisted by employees of the oil company, began moving all families living within a radius of half a mile of the well to a safer district.

SIX SCHOOLS CLOSED
Six city schools were closed and the children sent to parks and playgrounds out of the fire district, the extent of which had been designated by the state fire marshal. Late tonight eight companies of Oklahoma National Guard were notified to be on hand in case of a fire.

Two main line railways pass within 300 yards of the roaring gusher and trains were not run from the local yards all day, incoming trains were stopped outside the fire zone and transferred passengers to automobiles and motor buses. The trains were brought into the city under "dead steam."

In order to prevent fires, the local gas company shut off its supply to all houses in the city. Those who could, moved to hotels out of the zone. The city's fire department is on hand in case of a fire.

Down on his small "lease," Fred Morgan, president of the company, worked feverishly with his crews of men and equipment.

No Demonstration In New York for This Ocean Flyer

The maker of the flight says it was not a word for or against, but the evidence is all that the daring hop actually was made.

FRENCH OFFER MAY LEAD TO WHEAT SALES

France Opens Conversations With Canadian Delegation on Trade Subjects

HARD HIT BY U.S.: WOULD BUY HERE

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press)—Canada is casting around for new markets for her wheat. Conversations have been opened, it was learned today, which will probably lead to revision of the trade treaty between France and Canada.

France, hard hit by high United States tariffs, is anxious to secure a market for her wheat. She has made an approach to the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference, with a view to opening formal trading relations.

REVISIT TREATY
The Canadian position in the preliminary conversations, it is understood, is that, existing Franco-Canadian trade treaty should be revised, and secondly that France should be prepared to give an assured market for an agreed proportion of Canadian wheat.

France now imposes on her millers a quota of 90 per cent home-grown wheat to be used in the manufacture of bread for use in France. Owing to her poor crops, however, France has recently been forced to import more wheat than she has exported.

She claims to be buying $20,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat on the British market annually, but this figure is regarded by Canadian authorities as doubtful.

NOT PRACTICAL
Meanwhile the Imperial Conference sub-committee are continuing their study of the quota scheme as applied to British purchases. Their explorations tend to show that the quota scheme is difficult to control as to prove almost impracticable, except in the case of imports of wheat and flour. This view, if confirmed, would rule out suggested quota purchase of dairy products, fresh fruits and canned fruits, and canned fish.

Wheat, however, is in a different category. The wheat trade passes along more defined and centralized channels, than the other classes of goods. The application of a quota could be controlled through the British millers.

CHINA DENIES SHE IS SEEKING SILVER LOAN

Minister of Finance Repudiates in Cable Message Intention Given by Judge Lineberger

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Judge Paul Lineberger, who carries credentials as "legal adviser" to the Chinese National Government, was informed today that T. V. Soong, Nationalist Government Finance Minister, had denied China sought a silver loan in America and issued the following statement:

"My duty in America is to obtain a complete sovereignty for China in its treaties. This is the essential foundation of all loans to China. China must be recognized as a sovereign, independent power, free from all unequal treaties, before a foreign loan of any kind is equitable from the Chinese viewpoint."

My duty, therefore, is to report to the National Government upon the treaties and the economic conditions of the same as regards America and other countries. The proposed 1,000,000,000 ounces of silver loan may or may not be taken up by the National Government; when my report on treaties has been received and considered by them.

"This cablegram puts the cart before the horse. I am merely the legal adviser and not the financial agent of the Government. Whether or not the Government takes my advice depends upon their superior judgment."

Judge Lineberger told newspapermen yesterday he had come to negotiate an American loan for fifty years at 2 per cent.

Bromley Not Ready To Discuss Chance Of Further Attempt

May and June Would Be Months Chosen if Native-Son Aviator Tackles Trans-Pacific Crossing Again Next Year From Japan to North America

Gives Own Account of Unlucky Flight

"IT is altogether too premature for me to discuss the possibility of a trans-Pacific crossing by air from Japan to America being attempted in 1931," Harold Bromley, internationally-known aviator and native son of Victoria, announced aboard the United States Mail ship President Jefferson, shortly after she berthed here last evening from Yokohama.

"With anything like an even break, I have every reason to believe the passage of the Pacific is feasible, and have every confidence in being able to cross with the City of Tacoma from Japan to its namesake city on Puget Sound. It was a great disappointment for both of us to have to turn about and put back after making such an auspicious start from Sabinhiro Beach, with the weather on the time all that could be desired, although we were warned just before the take-off of an impending change. It was therefore a great surprise when we returned after the weather had broken and the fog shut in, a circumstance which amazed the Japanese."

"If arrangements are made, and we decide to make the attempt again next year, the months of May and June will be my choice, for the conditions then will be most favorable, with practically no chance of fog during these months while easterly winds prevail."

SECOND TRY BALCKED
"We had expected to be able to make a second attempt following our forced return, and were fully prepared to do so if the new collector ring had reached us in time; but this did not arrive at Yokohama until October 15, which meant that we would have been November 1, at least, before we could get away."

Mayor Will Dial First City Calls

The inauguration of the dial telephone system in Victoria at midnight tonight will be marked by a number of conversations between prominent men.

Mayor Herbert Ascham, who will be at the central exchange building on Blanchard Street to witness the "cut-over," will be the first to dial a number, which will follow his "Long Distance" to connect him with his honor, Lieutenant-Governor Bush, at the City Hall.

Interior of British Columbia. This conversation has been held, it is understood, by one between His Worship and Premier S. F. Tolmie, who will be at his home. Conversations between a number of other prominent citizens will follow.

The attendance at the "cut-over" tonight is being strictly limited, in order that the men engaged in this important work will not be hampered. An opportunity to inspect the new automatic equipment will be given the public at a later date.

James Hamilton, vice-president of the Telephone Company, reached the city yesterday, and expressed himself as well pleased with the progress of plans for tonight's change. Other telephone officials have been gathering here for some days and the final contingents will arrive today.

TWO MORE DROWNED IN MANITOBA LAKES

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—Two new victims were added tonight to the early freeze-up list of fatalities. From Winnipeg, in the rugged frontier country of Northern Manitoba, comes the report of an aged Indian and a young boy drowning after plunging through treacherous ice in many seasons.

The dead are: St. Pierre Nicaise, twenty-five, of the Camperville Indian Reserve; and Chartrand, fifteen, Winnipeg.

ETHIOPIAN EMPEROR CLIPS WINGS OF HIS BLACK EAGLE When Royal Plane Crashes

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct. 31.—The Emperor of Ethiopia, Ras Tafari, has clipped the wings of his "Black Eagle"—the one-time Emperor Haile Selassie—Herbert Julian—and ordered him out of the country in disgrace.

His Majesty's wrath was aroused because Julian took the royal airplane into the air against orders and descended suddenly and unintentionally in a mass almost at the Emperor's feet. "Colonel" Julian was not hurt, but the plane was wrecked, and it was a plane of which Ras Tafari was particularly proud.

His Majesty had obtained the plane from the daughter of Gordon Blairidge, London department store owner, to demonstrate to foreigners at the forthcoming coronation ceremonies that an Ethiopian could fly as well as any one else.

Julian, well known among American negroes for his parachute jumps and his ill-fated flight "around the world" and "from Harlem to Liberia," attributed his accident to spite work and jealousy on the part of a French airman.

A Frenchman, a captain, until recently was head of the Ethiopian air force. Julian said the officer did not want him to become the "Ace of Ethiopia."

On one occasion Julian parachuted from a height of 5,000 feet, landing almost at the feet of the astonished Ras Tafari. His Majesty

BEAVERBROOK SUCCEEDS IN PADDINGTON

SERIOUS SETBACK TO CONSERVATIVES

Government Faces Grave Situation in White-chapel Riding

By CARROLL BINDER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Press Service)

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The triumph of Stanley Baldwin over his foes within the party has been short-lived. The candidate of Lord Beaverbrook in the Paddington-by-election, Admiral E. A. Taylor, defeated the official Conservative candidate, Sir Herbert Liddard, by a majority of 941 votes.

Such a result, in a constituency in which the previous Conservative incumbent was elected without opposition, is an astounding repudiation of the official Conservative party leadership and is bound to affect Mr. Baldwin's fortunes.

WEAKENED POSITION
The first reaction here, say some, is that Mr. Baldwin is bound to resign in the face of such a defeat in a contest fought solely on "old Beaverbrook's" versus Mr. Baldwin's programme.

Sir Herbert Liddard entered the campaign under a pledge to support the Beaverbrook food tax policy, under pressure from the Conservative office despatched the publisher for the "free hand" policy promulgated by Mr. Baldwin. He always explained his willingness to tax "food," but wanted Mr. Baldwin left free to choose the method and time.

Lord Beaverbrook placed the required naval officer without experience in the running, as a protest against Mr. Baldwin's policies, and staged a spectacular campaign in which, roving, and columnar figures to a degree seldom witnessed by said Britain.

SIGNIFICANT DEFEAT
Admiral Taylor received 11,200 votes, while Mr. Liddard, with the best backing the Tory leaders could give him, only received 10,258 in a middle class London constituency. It is an amazing popular verdict against Mr. Baldwin, so-called significant after the nearest contest of the Baldwin campaign, the Bromley-by-election, two months ago, by the prestige of Lord Rothermere, Lord Rothermere refused to support a woman running under his banner at Paddington and she got only 484 votes, as Rothermere helped Admiral Taylor.

INCOME TAXES WILL ADVANCE IN AUSTRALIA

Super Levy to Be Imposed and Ministerial Salaries Given Cut

HOUSE MEMBERS TO SUFFER REDUCTION

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 31.—Highly important steps towards reduction of the Commonwealth financial position were approved by the Labor party caucus today, after a long session. Government heads have battled staunchly with the extremists in the party.

Reduction of salaries of ministers and members of Parliament, and increase in taxation, are expected to amount to $40,000,000 annually. These were approved by the parliamentary Labor caucus.

MANY ECONOMIES
With the Nationalist party opposition also in favor of retrenchment, and sound public opinion behind the policy of economy following the recommendations of Sir Otto Neimeyer, public finance expert, it is expected the Commonwealth Parliament will be able to effect, at its coming session, many important measures designed to put Australia's finances back on a sound footing.

FINANCIAL MEASURES
The following highly important financial proposals were approved today after an all-week struggle:

1. A special tax on salaries of civil servants. This is 10 per cent on salaries between $2,750 and $5,000; 12 1/2 per cent on salaries between $5,000 and $7,500, and 15 per cent on salaries above $7,500.

2. A surtax on all taxable incomes of more than $2,750. The surtax starts at 7 1/2 per cent and is proportionately higher on larger salaries, but does not attach to the first $2,750 of taxable income.

3. A 15 per cent cut in salaries of Government ministers, and 10 per cent cut in the salaries of members of Parliament.

MANITOBA EMPLOYMENT

SEEK VOTE ON SALE OF BEER BY GLASS HERE

Victoria and Five Other Areas Ask Plebiscites Under Local Option

PETITIONERS IN CITY WANT FURTHER TEST

Petitions asking for plebiscites on sale of beer by the glass in Victoria and five other places in the province are in the hands of the Government this week. It is learned, following a canvass of the areas concerned by those in favor of testing public sentiment on the issue.

The petitions are being checked as to the number and validity of the signatures, to see if they contain the requisite proportion of those registered on the voters' list. Official action in regard to the requests for plebiscites may be deferred until after the Government has settled its policy in regard to beer sales within the province in future.

That from Victoria city is understood to contain some 5,200 names of voters, not including approximately 1,800 additional names of those who thought it desirable to have the voters' list but turned out to be not so registered. The voters' list for the area includes approximately 15,000 names. Supporters of the petition say many additional names could have been secured but for reluctance to put on paper views they would be willing to express by ballot on a plebiscite.

Five other areas in the province have also filed petitions. It is understood, mostly affecting smaller and isolated sections in dry districts.

The last plebiscite on the sale of beer by the glass in Victoria was held in 1924, when the area voted against the measure by a close margin. Since then there have been two attempts to start petitions, but these failed for want of the necessary signatures at the time. The present petition, following a three weeks' canvass of the city, is believed by its supporters to fulfill all the requirements necessary for a proper application for a vote on the subject.

PRaises WORK OF CANADIAN CLUB IN DOMINION AFFAIRS

Major George W. Stephens, of Montreal, who has completed a coast to coast tour of the Dominion of Canada with the exception of a portion of Ontario, paid a tribute to the work of the Canadian Club, under whose auspices he has been speaking of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project. In a brief interview last night the major said:

"The national usefulness of the Canadian Club is becoming more evident as the years go on. Of all the service clubs functioning today the Canadian Club is the only one that stresses national unity. The people of Canada and elsewhere have come to realize that it is a living force in Canadian affairs and is worthy of being supported and used. As the province of British Columbia came into the Confederation on the understanding that a link of steel should connect Canada and bind together the various provinces, so the Canadian Club, from coast to coast, is another link that makes for integrity and independence for our country."

Major Stephens is leaving today for the Mainland on his way back to Montreal from which place he started his speaking tour early in October.

VETERANS ARE CONTRIBUTING TO BIG DRIVE

Ex-Service Men Aiding Campaign for $20,000—Need of Funds Is Urgent

RED CROSS IS STILL ACTIVE AMONG SICK

Veterans' organizations here are doing their bit to assist in putting over the combined Armistice Period Red Cross campaign for $20,000, by making substantial donations. The Army and Navy Veterans and Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, have each subscribed $500, and the Naval Veterans' Branch, Canadian Legion, $120. All ex-service organizations are purchasing large quantities of wreaths and poppies, and individual veterans are making generous donations.

SYMBOL OF MERCY

During the war the Red Cross was the soldiers' symbol of mercy. It went with them to the trenches, followed them to the dressing stations and remained with them during long periods of hospital treatment. While war was destroying life and torturing bodies, workers under the insignia of mercy were striving to repair the ravages of the destroyer.

Tireless in their efforts, and with unwavering courage, men and women, working under the sign of the Red Cross, maintained the health of the troops at a high level and brought the work of caring for sick and wounded to a state of efficiency never reached in previous wars.

Originally the function of the Red Cross was to care for the sick and wounded in time of war, but its sphere of service has been increased to include the improvement of health, prevention of disease and mitigation of suffering throughout the world.

The British Columbia division of the society has striven industriously to fulfill its share of the task. The three points on which it concentrates are: Service to veterans in hospitals or in difficulties; outpost nursing service for soldier settlers and others remote from medical help; and organization of the Junior Red Cross.

The Victoria branch of the society is active in its care of veterans. The Red Cross Workshop provides work for forty disabled men, enabling them to supplement meagre pensions, attain a higher standard of comfort and gain that greater measure of happiness which is the outcome of opportunity and ability to perform useful work.

Throughout all the years since the war ended the monotony of hospital life has been relieved by regular visits from members of the society. Comforts have been provided and acts of kindness performed that remind the veterans they are not forgotten.

RED CROSS ON GUARD

And in the wild and sparsely settled districts the Red Cross stands on guard, "an ever ready help in time of trouble," supplying through its nursing outpost stations

GREEK PREMIER WILL CALL ON CHURCH HEAD

Visit Expected to Close Long Standing Dispute—Has Approval of Turkish Gov't

ANGORA, Turkey, Oct. 31.—Premier Venizelos of Greece tomorrow will call upon the Greek Patriarch Photius, an event which is hailed here as one of the most important in Eastern Christendom since the Turkish conquest of Constantinople in 1453.

This will be the first time in nearly five hundred years the political leader of the Greek nation will have paid homage to the ecclesiastical leader of Eastern Christendom. Observers point out that one striking aspect is that Premier Venizelos will visit the Patriarch with approval of the Turkish Government. Only five years ago the question of the Patriarch's position in Turkey flared up.

At that time Turkey expelled, on twenty-four hours' notice, the Patriarch Constantine, on the ground he belonged in the category of exchangeable population.

The Turkish Government's approval of tomorrow's visit is regarded as assurance to the 100,000 Greco-Turkish citizens of Istanbul that the Government does not believe their religious attachment to the Patriarchate is detrimental to their loyalty to the Turkish State.

A Benile paper says: "A consignment importation of British Columbia paper money is being made." Their note is nearly as common as those of our own country. It was not till 1878 that the British Columbia note was first taken reluctantly and at the bank and postoffice are rejected. Nothing is made by their importation and it would be better if it were stopped."

Washington Predicts Democrats Will Win Elections Next Week

Economic Depression and Responsibility of Government in Situation Is National Issue in Congressional Campaign in United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The economic depression and the Government's responsibility in the present situation is the national issue in the Congressional election next Tuesday.

If the United States voter decided the conduct of the Republican Government has not eased "hard times," he will administer a rebuke to President Hoover and the Republican House of Representatives and Senate by giving the Democratic party a victory. If, on the other hand, he feels less prosperous days in the United States merely reflect a world-wide condition and that the administration and Congress have done what they could to improve matters, he will again give the President the majority in Congress which he needs to carry on his legislative programme.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Two years ago, when Mr. Hoover succeeded Calvin Coolidge in the White House and was given an overwhelming majority in the House of Representatives, together with what was then considered a working majority in the Senate, the United States was riding a wave of unprecedented prosperity. The full dinner pail was very full and the Republicans promised to keep it so.

Months after the election the people of the United States had a feeling of economic and political security. The President called a special session of Congress which undertook to establish an agency for relief of agriculture with a fund of $500,000,000 behind it, and to revise the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act for the benefit of "ailing industries." Not without some squaking, the measure for agricultural relief was passed and the Federal Farm Board established, but the tariff revision brought bitter dissension into Republican ranks.

RETROGRESSIVE INFLUENCES

In the meantime retrogressive influences were felt in financial and business circles throughout the world. Prices began to drop here and there, the cry of overproduction grew menacing, the stock market in New York collapsed and the bottom dropped out of the Chicago wheat pit.

Then a bad drought struck the agricultural regions of the United States.

Whether or not influenced by the extreme protection offered the United States by the Hawley-Smoot legislation, other nations began to revise their tariff laws to the disadvantage of American exporters.

CHANGE ANTICIPATED

Basing their opinions on the tendency of the average United States voter to lay the blame for everything except the weather on the Government, expert observers in Washington are unanimous in declaring that the Democrats will take seats in the House of Representatives and possibly in the Senate from the Republicans.

However, it is generally conceded by thinking voters throughout the country that the President has had bad luck, sympathy for him may show up strongly on the ballots of Tuesday.

ONTARIO OFFICIAL IS REMAINED IN COURT

Deputy Minister of Labor Charged With Theft of Dress From Store

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—"I don't know what made me do it," said James H. H. Ballantine, deputy minister of labor in the Provincial Government, when interviewed this morning following his arrest last night on a charge of theft of a woman's dress valued at $15 from a downtown store.

"The truth is I did take a dress," said the deputy minister. "I cannot explain why the impulse came on me. The thing was done in a few seconds. Evidently the store clerk saw me do it and telephoned the police, and when they came to interview me I stated I took the dress. I had more than $200 in my possession at the time. Some kind of mental aberration which is not explainable prompted me to do this. It is regrettable, but true."

Ballantine appeared in police court this morning and was remanded to November 3, on bail of $200.

Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Labor, announced this morning that Ballantine has been suspended from his post.

Mr. Ballantine was appointed deputy minister of labor on October 11, 1921. Previous to that date he had been claims adjuster with an accident assurance company. He was a Labor candidate for East Toronto in the 1917 Dominion elections, but was defeated. He also unsuccessfully ran for mayor in 1919.

His salary as deputy minister was $4,800 annually, while in addition, he is vice-president of a prominent manufacturing concern here.

The Rhyming Optimist

WHEN AUTUMN COMES

When Autumn comes with dry and falling leaf
And the sad winds go wailing through the wood,
In many hearts there be a note of grief
For life, too swift, too little understood.

It is man's way to question the decree
That bloom and beauty still must end in dust,
To doubt the perfect plan, the mystery
That moves through all, the hand supremely just.

But falling leaf or leaf that buds, we know
Is but a phase of life without an end,
As tides of ocean, though they ebb or flow,
Their vast pulsations through the waters send.

CLIFFORD DAWLEY AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Local Man Deported From United States, Taken in Charge by Police Here

Wanted by the Provincial Police for an escape from custody near Penitentiary in August last, while en route to Oakalla to commence serving a fifteen-month term for possession of stolen goods, Clifford Dawley was on his way back to Oakalla last evening, after deportation from the United States.

Dawley, a former Victoria youth who, with another companion, was tried and acquitted at a recent Victoria Assize hearing on a charge of breaking into a house in the Fairfield district, was apprehended a few months later in the interior on a charge of possessing stolen goods. Sentenced on the latter charge, he was on his way to prison when he escaped and fled across the border.

Police circulars of the missing youth led to his being questioned at San Francisco, where he was shot in resisting arrest and subsequently deported. Dawley was placed ashore from the Ruth Alexander on Thursday evening, and taken in charge by officers of the city police. His wounded arm was still carried in a sling. He was taken under guard to the Mainland last evening.

ERNEST RAYMOND WILL LECTURE ON TUESDAY

Distinguished Novelist's Address on "Spirit of England" Already Attracting Many

The rapid sale of tickets, obtainable at Fletcher Bros., for Ernest Raymond's lecture on "The Spirit of England," which will be delivered at the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the National Council of Education, is sure indication of the interest which this brilliant novelist has aroused.

He will base his lecture largely upon his latest book, "The Jestling Army," of which Brock Smith, the Vancouver critic, has to say:

"I hope that the deluge of war books of the past year will not obscure Mr. Raymond's fine story—or cause many not to read it. That would be a pity, for it is the British war book for which we have been waiting."

"The tragedy, suffering and terrible waste of men and material are all there—even the language peculiar to soldiers, with all its irrelevance and color. The atmosphere is there—just as it is in 'All Quiet on the Western Front.' But this is an infinitely finer piece of work. Where 'All Quiet' shocks the sensibilities, 'The Jestling Army' plunges them in pain; where 'All Quiet' charges the humor of a soldier with irony, 'The Jestling Army' discloses the real spirit of fun—the real good nature—that made it possible for men to carry on."

"One had a bad taste in the mouth after reading 'All Quiet.' The feeling one has after reading 'The Jestling Army' is that manhood is rather splendid, and to be associated with a number of men in any enterprise—even war, where sacrifices and good humor are needed—has its own glory."

"'All Quiet,' in its impact upon our civilization, was essentially propaganda. 'The Jestling Army' is equally pointed and powerful in its lesson—probably more so—because it has the convincing truthfulness of autobiography. But it's not propaganda—it's a fine novel."

"I have many friends who say they are 'fed up' with war books. I shall try to persuade them to read just one more—the finest of all that I have read (and I have read scores of them by now)—'The Jestling Army.'"

Mr. Raymond served as a padre on no fewer than six different fronts during the late war. His fame as a lecturer is world-wide, and it is probable that the popularity which he gained when here for the "Conference of Education and Leisure" has much to do with the present demand for tickets for Tuesday's lecture.

On behalf of the employees, Mr. Arthur Petch presented a beautiful glass-enclosed clock with a suitable inscription as a wedding gift to the new member of the firm, Mr. James Thacker. Dr. Clem Davies proposed a toast to the ladies, and presented Mrs. Thacker with a silver mesh purse and corsage bouquet, a gift of the employees of Thacker & Holt. DEEP WATERWAY SCHEME KEY TO WORLD'S TRADE

Major Stephens, Apostle of Project, Tells Canadian Club Inside Truths

DEEPENING CHANNELS COSTS $839,000,000

"Canada is not disposed to step into a conference with the United States where the big stick is to be the basis of negotiations, but is willing to get into the boat for a discussion of the navigation principle as a means to a declared waterway project."

The St. Lawrence waterway as it stands today, he said, is like a railway with three different gauges. It has a thousand miles of waterway, 200 miles of fourteen-foot, and a thousand miles of twenty-two-foot navigation, and that is its outstanding handicap. The project proposed to deepen all channels to a uniform twenty-seven feet, which would permit two-thirds of the world's tonnage to reach the Great Lakes.

COST OF PROJECT
With reference to the cost of the proposed undertaking, Major Stephens quoted figures from the report of Leslie R. Thompson, of the Engineering Institute of Canada, who says: "The whole St. Lawrence deep-waterway, including all navigational facilities and all power is estimated to cost $839,000,000, if both power and navigation are constructed simultaneously and if navigation and power are separated the cost would be $901,000,000. This includes the Welland Ship Canal, a new power station and constructed by Canada at a cost of $130,000,000. Deducing the amount expended on the Welland Canal leaves $770,000,000 as the estimated cost of the completed waterway for twenty-seven-foot navigation and 6,000,000 newly-installed horsepower." The report shows that Canada has already contributed $250,000,000 to the project and the United States only $50,000,000.

SOUNDING A WARNING
Major Stephens sounded a warning to Canadians not to consider for a moment the construction of the navigation part of the scheme with the power scheme. He gave the reasons. If power, he said, was developed at the time of the construction for navigation, the cost of Canada would have an enormous supply of energy without a market and the result would be that Canada would be forced to sell its power to concerns in the United States.

"That is something that no true Canadian wants to see," he said.

Major Stephens covered a wide field in his explanations of the significance of the project, the greatest ever conceived in the history of the Dominion. He mentioned "the Chicago water steal" by which the city of Chicago annually diverted water from Lake Michigan for sewage disposal purposes sufficient to lower the levels of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence basin from three to seven inches.

WATERWAYS PRIVILEGES
The United States has perpetual navigation rights in the St. Lawrence on equal terms with Canada, and it should be our right to navigate the Mississippi on equal terms with the people of the United States," the Major said.

In summing up his remarks Major Stephens said: "The St. Lawrence waterway is one of the most important public undertakings that has ever been presented for the consideration of the Canadian people."

"Its vast influence for or against the future of our country," he said, "makes it a duty for each one of us to try and understand it. It is bound to come before the people of this country in the immediate future, and deserves the earnest thought of all of us, if it is to be worked out on a fair basis."

"From an engineering point of view after ten years of investigation, and on the evidence of every technical service to which the proposals have been submitted, the scheme has been declared to be practical, to be of economic advantage and of public utility."

"It has been declared necessary to meet the industrial expansion of both countries."

AMERICA'S PART
"If the United States undertakes to construct at her own expense power and navigation facilities in the International Rapids section and deepens the intercommunicating channels between the Great Lakes and Canada undertakes to construct the eleven miles of necessary canals from Montreal to Beauharnois, deepens the ship channel in Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francis, the St. Lawrence Waterway can be opened for navigation from the Ocean to Lake Superior for a capital cost to Canada of something like $100,000,000, according to the estimates now available, and Canada will have developed without expense to her 1,600,000 horsepower of electricity which can be used to increase her industrial wealth and prosperity."

The address was illustrated by a number of lantern slides showing maps of the proposed route, Great Lakes vessels and views of the Welland and Sault Ste. Marie locks. P. B. Fowler, president of the club was in the chair and introduced the speaker.

ISLAND SCENERY ON VIEW AT EXHIBITION

Arts and Crafts Annual Display at Board of Trade

Premier Toimie was justified, on the opening day of the Island Arts and Crafts annual exhibition, in referring to the wealth of fine material which an artist may find in Victoria and its vicinity. In the display at the Board of Trade rooms there is an even finer collection than usual of local Vancouver Island and British Columbia scenes, portrayed with appreciation of the magnificent color and atmospheric effects, as well as fine technique and sense of composition.

Beginning near at home there is T. Bamford's "In Victoria Harbor" (No. 61), showing one bit of the inland waters on a clear day when the distant buildings, contented, standing like a painted drop-curtain behind the brown-streaked marsh at the right and the soft brown shadows of the water at the left. Unity Balle, in "Inner Harbor" (No. 11), has found another angle from which to paint the bay, discovering a tropical sunset scene with drift of smoke, boats and watercolor industries. M. E. Oton's "Shoal Bay" (No. 13), taken from a low study of the water's edge, is a pure study of rocks and water.

A little farther afield is E. J. Palmer's "Near Gordon Head" (No. 26), of more pastoral character, with a stream flowing through a valley, standing like a painted drop-curtain behind the brown-streaked marsh at the right and the soft brown shadows of the water at the left. Unity Balle, in "Inner Harbor" (No. 11), has found another angle from which to paint the bay, discovering a tropical sunset scene with drift of smoke, boats and watercolor industries. M. E. Oton's "Shoal Bay" (No. 13), taken from a low study of the water's edge, is a pure study of rocks and water.

Among the mountains
Ina D. D. Unthoff's "The Fall of the Year" (No. 60) is probably some of the most beautiful subjects in the exhibition, catching the gold and russet glint of Autumn-tinted trees, and later discovering the snow peaks in the distance. Colonel Fawkes' "Active Post Lighthouse," painted in clean color, is a familiar subject (No. 42).

McLeod and Rubish Fires—Fire in a chimney at 788 Hillside Avenue gave the fire department a run at 12:22 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At 8:19 o'clock last night, rubbish burning at the rear of the Baptist Church on the corner of Hastings and the corner of the city hall, resulted in a call being sent to fire headquarters. No damage was done.

Registrations Clear—A total of 1,968 householders and licensees registered to have their names placed on the municipal voters' list for 1930, according to figures given out at the close of registrations at the city clerk's office at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This is an increase of 158 voters over 1929. Of the total number of registrants, J. A. Angus, special registrar, recorded 1,501.

Six False Alarms—In less than three hours last night six false alarms were turned in to fire headquarters. The work is believed to have been that of boys celebrating Halloween.

Money Stolen—Burglars who ransacked the residence of Mrs. E. H. Young, 1716 Davis Street, some time before 7:58 o'clock last night, secured loot totaling $21, according to a report filed at the police station. Detectives are investigating.

Pays Visit to Mayor—Governor Charles V. Sale, of the Hudson's Bay Company, paid his respects to Mayor Anson at the City Hall at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Governor Sale and other officials of the company signed the civic visitors' book.

Handy Memorandum—The Chamber of Commerce is sending out to all its members a convenient form for keeping a list of the various telephones most in use. This is done in view of the fact that there will be a necessity for compiling a new list of the most used telephones within the next day or two.

Foxes Arrive Safely—A cable received yesterday from Sweden stated that the shipment of foxes dispatched to that country from British Columbia had arrived without a single mishap in transit. It is felt among local breeders that this circumstance will encourage the shipping of live foxes to Europe.

Just Roamin' Around

For some few days there has been an advertisement in The Daily Colonist, that has aroused the admiration and sympathy of Rover and myself, and he has asked me to say just what we feel about it today. We hope that the advertisement is not still in the paper where this little tribute to a lady appears, for we hope that she will have found her little canine friend, and that a while Sealyham Terrier is right now, happy and romping on the greenward at Work Point Baracks to his heart's content and with his mistress' consolation. ("Goodness Rover!" said I, "Just what would I do if you were to be lost? I would never be able to offer any reward for you, and you are worth a million to me, or more. That lady, out at the barracks, must have a good heart, for she has first of all advertised in big print and with a picture of her chum, but best of all, she offers a substantial sum, $100 will be given to anyone who brings him home to her. "She's all right," I wagged Rover to me, "and I jolly well hope she gets the little Sealyham Terrier back again soon!"

"Let's keep our eyes open for him as we roam around today!" Where'll we go, Rover?

Well, first of all, we wrote a lot of letters, read an article on fishing in Hudson's Bay and did a host of silly things, and then in came a friend who said, "come on you, we'll go and take in the twenty-first annual exhibition of paintings, drawings, etc., at the old Board of Trade Building on Bastion Square, and see things that will make us wish we could paint, or had that $100 reward offered for the return of the dog and he needs artificial lovey things that many of the local artists in Victoria are so profuse in producing."

Hallowe'en Cabaret Is Gay Affair

With traditional spirit of jollification, All Hallow's Eve was celebrated last evening at the Empress Hotel, at a delightful cabaret supper dance. The ballroom had been elaborately decorated in the Hallowe'en colors of orange and black, and tables were placed in the ballroom foyer, where the fireplace was hung with Jack-o'-Lanterns and festooned with ivy, while the walls of the ballroom were ornamented with eerie witches, giant black cats, pumpkins and ghost cut-outs. The menu and programmes were orange and black. Spotlight dancing and attractive moonlight effects added a novel touch to the gay scene, and about three hundred dancers were present. During the evening Mrs. Dorothy Wilson's pupils of the Russian School of Dancing gave a number of clever numbers, which were enthusiastically applauded.

Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Weller, Mr. and Mrs. A. McNally, Mr. and Mrs. Genge, Miss Betty Savannah, Miss Marie North, Miss Olga Hare, Mr. and Mrs. R. Kingham, the Misses Helen and Norah Wilson, Mrs. F. H. Hester, Miss Mary Campbell, Mr. F. WATERWAYS PROJECT DEFINED FOR LADIES

Major G. W. Stephens Addresses Big Gathering of Women's Canadian Club at Empress Hotel

Members of the Women's Canadian Club showed a lively interest in the St. Lawrence Waterways project by attending in large numbers the meeting yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel, when Major George Washington Stephens, of Toronto, explained the subject, following practically the same arguments as were given earlier in the day at the men's Canadian Club luncheon gathering, at which he was the speaker.

Again the speaker urged the need for caution and a very careful survey of all angles of the situation before Canada came to any agreement with the United States. Of the five million horsepower developable in the St. Lawrence waterways project, four million horsepower belonged to Canada. But there was no Canadian market for this. The only market for such power, at the present time, was in the United States, and the moment Canada exported her electrical power for the development of United States industries, she was virtually cutting her own throat, industrially, and might as well retire from the position of a nation because of her unwillingness to inherit such a great national asset.

"My policy would be not to develop all the water power at one time, but only as we require it to increase our manufacturing efficiency in our own country, the speaking and being supplied. Special interest has been taken in the case of the Indians of Patricia Bay, and in connection with the Allee Chapter, I.O.O.F."

General satisfaction was expressed at the appointment from the subdivision of Mrs. J. L. Thompson as representative of the board of the Junior Red Cross. This report was signed by Mrs. M. E. Service, secretary, and Mrs. W. C. McManus, president.

Miss A. Podnault, secretary of the Esquimalt subdivision, presented a report, which showed a spirit of loyalty and active interest in the affairs of the parishes of Esquimalt and Victoria West, now being consolidated into one central parish through the building of the new Queen of Peace Church.

The Victoria Junior Subdivision reported for the first year of its establishment showed little left to be desired in the way of membership and success. The enthusiasm of the members in collecting funds for their work has enabled them to provide a hut at the Sunshine Camp with very necessary comfort. They have formed classes for religious instruction of the children, looked after the little first communicants, arranging the annual breakfast with gifts to each child.

Mrs. A. Grant, reporting for immigration, told of having met and taken to her home strangers who were lonely during their first days in Victoria.

Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna, diocesan voting delegate to the convention at Sudbury, gave a splendid report of the meetings.

Rev. Father Wood invited the out-of-town delegates and members to visit his new church during the afternoon.

The evening session at 8 o'clock, in the K. of C. Hall, was largely attended and addresses were heard from His Lordship Bishop Murray, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Letorne, Rev. Father Evans and Rev. Bro. Lawless. His Lordship Bishop Murray congratulated the league upon its successful year.

LAMPSON SCHOOL HAS HALLOWEEN PARTY

Prizes Awarded to Twenty Competitors in Masquerade—Costumes Show Much Ingenuity

Witches and organ grinders, black bats and goblins and cats did not overlook Lampson Street School last evening, when scores of parents joined the pupils in a Hallowe'en party, which was eminently successful from every standpoint.

The proceedings opened with a fancy costume masquerade contest in the assembly hall, this being followed by a dance and the serving of refreshments. The whole school was seasonably decorated, with pumpkin lights over the stage, where the members of the school board, Principal H. W. Creelman and staff, and visitors sat; and orange-colored ribbons stenciled with Hallowe'en symbols spanned the hall. The grand march began at 7:30 o'clock, in the following five costumed groups: Hallowe'en, artistic, cheapest, comic and general. The competition in each, with the exception of the boys' section of the artistic, which produced only one entry, was excellent, and the greatest ingenuity was seen in the costumes produced in the contest for cheapest dress.

The judges had some difficulty in deciding the winners, who were finally announced as follows:

Hallowe'en—Girls: 1, Marie Sweeney, with 2, Irene Hall, diamond. Boys: 1, Norma Symons, black bat; 2, George Bligh, witch. Artistic—Girls: 1, Nina Williams, bride bouquet; 2, Norma Sedger, gold fairy. Boys: 1, Jimmy Williams, Fauntleroy; 2, Dorothy Williams, jockey. Cheapest—Girls: 1, Muriel Ross, dress of wood shavings; 2, Betty Wiltner, dress of comic strip. Boys: 1, Norman Irving, knight in armor made from old tin; 2, Freddie Jenkins, paper bag costume. Comic—Girls: 1, Robina Norton, lady of the seventies; 2, Hazel Williams and Gwen Evans, colored bride and bridegroom. Boys: 1, Ernest Durant, organ grinder and monkey; 2, Dick Simmons, Charlie Chaplin.

General—Girls: 1, Mabel Hall, lamp shade; 2, Eva Edson, miniature golf course. Boys: 1, Alfred Jenkins, clergyman; 2, Jack Williams, coster. Members of the school board who were present were: W. H. Dallaway, chairman; Mrs. E. Lablaster, A. Lockley and Mrs. B. King.

The judges were Mrs. J. C. Newbury and Miss Bruce.

CATHOLIC WOMEN ELECT OFFICERS

The Victoria diocesan subdivision of the Catholic Women's League met in annual convention on Thursday, in the library of the Bishop's Palace, when reports of the various subdivisions were heard and the following list of officers elected for the coming year: Diocesan past president, Miss H. O'Brien; diocesan president, Mrs. W. C. McManus; first vice-president, Mrs. R. A. Duncan; second vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Baines; third vice-president, Mrs. E. Colwell; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna; councillors, the presidents of the subdivisions, with two additional members of each subdivision. Mrs. W. C. McManus, Mrs. C. Sabin and Mrs. A. Grant; Esquimalt, Mrs. C. Deasy, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Burt; Oak Bay-Williams, Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna, Mrs. T. Brown and Mrs. E. Vernon; Thomson; junior subdivision, Miss E. O'Neill, Miss Helen Redgrave and Miss Louise Michael; Cobble Hill, Mrs. A. Kinsley, Mrs. Windus and Mrs. Munroe; Port Alberni, Mrs. A. McDonald and two to be appointed.

Mrs. Blair Reid gave a resume of the work of the Cathedral parish. The report of the convener of social service, Victoria subdivision, Miss H. O'Brien, showed needy and sick visited, pensions secured, clothing and bedding supplied. Special interest has been taken in the case of the Indians of Patricia Bay, and in connection with the Allee Chapter, I.O.O.F."

King and Queen Now In Sofia

SOPIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31.—King Boris of Bulgaria and his Italian bride, Princess Giovanna, today received the "nuptial benediction" of the Holy Synod of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church in Sofia Cathedral.

The ceremony took place shortly after the arrival of the King and his bride in the Bulgarian capital from Bourgas, Black Sea port, and was accompanied by a colorful popular welcome to the couple.

There was no exchange of rings, and certain other ritual details were omitted, thus satisfying the Vatican's demand that the Catholic ceremony at Assisi last Saturday be considered the one valid and binding.

On the other hand, Bulgarians were satisfied because the crowns of marriage had been held over the heads of the couple, that they drank out of the same chalice and that both had kissed the Gospel at the conclusion, the essentials of the Orthodox rite had been complied with.

However, the president of the synod, in his speech after the ceremony, took the occasion to congratulate Boris on "founding at last the real Orthodox dynasty" so much wished for by the Bulgarian Church.

It was noted, while King Boris made the sign of the cross in the Orthodox manner, Princess Giovanna, or Ioanna, as she is known to her Bulgarian subjects, adhered to the Catholic style, in which she was brought up.

CEREMONY TOMORROW
Tomorrow there will be a solemn religious service at the cathedral in honor of St. Ivan Rilsky, who is considered the patron of all named Ivan or Ioanna. Both the Czar and his Queen will attend, and then will review cultural organizations and students of the kingdom.

Today's ceremony was attended by the chief rabbi and mufi of Bulgaria, but not by the palatine.

Hovering above the royal party as it made its triumphal progress through a big municipal arch and thence the cathedral were four teen airplanes in a formation making the initial letter of Giovanna's name in Bulgarian script.

SPECIAL GUARDS
Before and behind the regal carriage trotted a squadron of the Royal Guard. The guard of honor at the railway station was furnished by the Cadet Corps in red caps with black visors, blue tunics and trousers, white belts and brilliant orange facings.

They saluted the royal pair with a great cheer as they presented arms and the bands struck up the national anthem.

King Boris said that their voyage from Brindisi to Bourgas was the stormiest he has ever experienced. Ioanna was compelled to remain below deck the entire time. He himself remained on his yacht's bridge throughout the storm.

HOW CAPT. COOK GAVE IMPETUS TO MISSIONS

One hundred and fifty years ago on October 4, 1783, writes The Christian World, the two ships of Capt. James Cook, the Resolution and the Discovery, arrived at England, from which they had left four and one-half years before. Their homeward journey was a sad one, as their famous captain, and the most noted explorer of his time, had been murdered in the South Sea.

"One of the most far-reaching results of his labors," this journal goes on to say, "was an indirect one. William Carey, in his Northamptonshire cottage, was fascinated by his reading of the accounts of Cook's earlier voyages, and he was deeply moved by the thought of the spiritual darkness of the native races. His concern found expression in his famous 'Inquiry Into the Obligations of Christians to Use Means for the Conversion of the Heathens,' which was followed three years later by his epoch-making sermon at Nottingham and the founding of the Baptist Missionary Society."

Dr. Barton Will Present a Study Of Human Nature

"CHOICE OR FATE?"

REV. G. A. REYNOLDS

"The Power of God" is the subject of Rev. G. A. Reynolds' sermon at the First Baptist Church on Sunday morning, the text to be taken from Zechariah IV, 6, "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord." Immediately following the morning service, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

In the evening the pastor will speak on "Life a Choice, or Are We Creatures of Fate?" For illustration he will use the story of the blind men and an elephant. Miss May Mason and Mr. Harold Beckwith will be the soloists for Sunday.

The young people will hold their meeting on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, and the midweek service for prayer and praise will be held on Wednesday at the same time.

EASTERN CHURCHES LIKE THE Y.M.C.A.

Recent Conference Makes Plans to Link Youth With Orthodox Christianity

Twelve clergy of the Eastern Orthodox churches, including four archbishops and four bishops, held a conference in Athens last Spring with twenty-eight laymen representing the Y.M.C.A. and the churches in Orthodox lands. It was a sequel to a similar gathering held at Sofia two years ago, but it was larger and brought together the largest assembly of Orthodox hierarchs in recent times.

At the conference it was found that co-operation between the Orthodox churches and the Y.M.C.A. had greatly increased, until today high churchmen are working on Y.M.C.A. committees in all Orthodox countries. In collaboration with the church there have been formed boys' and girls' camps, Boy Scout troops, young people's clubs, with athletic and social service a part of their programme. The Christian Century correspondent described the extent of the youth movement as "revolutionary in its aims and revolutionary in its methods."

Remarkable unanimity prevailed, despite the handicap of many different languages. A statement by the chairman in English would be translated at times into French, German, Greek and Russian, thus exceeding the League of Nations by two languages. Methods and programmes which ten years ago would have been held fantastic or revolutionary were agreed upon. The criticism as to athletics having place in the church's work was met by one bishop saying that he had watched, when in England he saw the Bishop of London playing tennis, that he had not grown too old to play also.

YOUTH NIGHT AT VICTORIA WEST

At Victoria West United Church on Sunday morning, Rev. O. M. Sanford will preach on "The Love of Christ in Four Dimensions." Brief reports will be given by the young people who attended the youth conference, and the pastor will speak briefly on "Meeting the Youth Problem Today." This will be an unusually interesting service for both old and young.

"Gods in the Making" Evening Topic of Mrs. Gordon Grant

At Unity Centre services tomorrow, the talks by Mrs. Gordon Grant will be both interesting and uplifting. In the morning the subject will be "The Power of Active Faith and Its Protection." The juvenile choir will sing "In the Garden." In the evening the talk will be on "Gods in the Making." Miss Eyre will be the accompanist.

Many Outcates of India Now in Church

"In the Telugu country of South India there were in 1880 about 80,000 Christians. Today there are about 850,000. In the Punjab the Indian Christian community grew between 1881 and 1921 from 6,000 to 315,000." From "Christ in the Indian Villages," by Bishop Ananth and Whitehead.

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock, the Theosophical Society will hold a public meeting in the Jones Building, Port Street, the subject being a continuation of "Archaic Symbols."

All Saints' Day Named as Time of Comfort and Hope

IN the calendar of the Christian Church November 1 is All Saints' Day, the commemoration on this day being not of one or another of those departed members of the church who have been given special honor, but of all Christians who have passed behind the veil. Commenting on the meaning of the day, last Sunday's Cathedral Parish Leaflet said that "the bereaved and lonely will specially find All Saints' Day a time of comfort and hope."

This festival was instituted by Pope Gregory IV in 835 and introduced into England about 870, where it was usually called Allhallows. Halloween is the eve of All Hallows, or All Saints' Day. All Souls' Day, the day following, is observed by the Roman communion in memory of the dead and by prayer for the release of souls from purgatory.

Dr. Kagawa is leader of the Kingdom of God movement in his country, which aims at raising the Christian population of Japan to one million during the next three years.

This unique personality is equally powerful with voice and pen, but he has lately had to forego much speaking in public on account of ill health. He has, however, taken advantage of this respite from full activity as a preacher, to complete two books in English, "God and the Gospel of Divine Love," an introduction to the New Testament, and "Meditations About God," of which twenty thousand copies of each have been printed.

POULTRY GRADING

The Egg and Poultry Market Review, published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, in its issue of October 28, says:

"The Canadian dressed poultry standards are as yet entirely voluntary in their operation. During the past two years an endeavor has been made to build up a solid groundwork for the use of these standards. The country industry must take one of two courses: It can grade and improve the quality of its product, as has been the case with eggs, thus keeping domestic prices above the level of world markets; or it can get

REMBRANDT EMBELLISHED

By S. N. HILL, Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Victoria, B.C.

The graph illustrates the price of gold in dollars over a period from February 1933 to April 1934. The vertical axis represents the price in dollars, with marked points at $35.00, $35.50, $36.00, and $34.50. The horizontal axis represents time, with labels for Feb '33, Apr '33, May '33, Dec '33, Jan '34, and Apr '34. The price line starts at $35.00 in Feb '33, rises to $35.50 in Apr '33, then drops sharply to $33.00 in May '33. It then fluctuates, reaching a peak of $36.00 in Dec '33, followed by a decline to $34.50 in Jan '34, and a final rise to $35.50 in Apr '34. A shaded area between the price line and a horizontal line at $35.00 is labeled 'Gold Standard'.

SURVIVORS OF R-101 TRAGEDY GIVE EVIDENCE

Two Ask Court That They Not Describe Screams of Comrades

EXPLOSION SPLIT SHIP FROM STEM TO STERN

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Four men who escaped with their lives from the inferno of the dirigible R-101, when it crashed and burned on a hillside near Beauvais, France, revived those terrifying moments just before the wreck as they testified today before the court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

So harrowing to them was the necessity for recalling that horrible experience, that two of them asked the court not to compel them to describe the agonized screams of their comrades perishing in the flames.

But the commission was as gentle as the circumstances permitted in questioning A. J. Cook, H. J. Leech and Y. Savory, engineers, and Arthur Disley, the radio operator. It was a vivid story Cook told, and the others supported it with detail.

DROVE TO EARTH
About 2 o'clock in the morning, a few minutes before the crash, Cook had gone on duty as engineer in charge of the fourth unit engine. The commander, rang for reduced speed shortly after he reached his post. The ship dived sharply, then seemed to lunge toward the earth.

In a moment she had struck with a terrific jar and seemed to bounce before striking again. Then there was a rendering explosion which split the ship from bow to stern.

When he got the order for reduced speed, Cook said, he felt that something must be wrong, for the craft had been going smoothly at normal cruising speed for some hours. It confirmed a suspicion he had had earlier, when, from his

Freighters Docked with Mixed Cargo from West Indies
From the West Indies, the freighter, Captain C. L. Bullock, docked at Ogden Point Piers late Thursday night. The vessel is operated by the Vancouver-West Indies Line, inaugurated several years ago by the Canadian Transport Company. King Brothers are local agents.

While the vessel's freight for Victoria consisted of 100 tons of salt, the freight for the mainland, including the first consignment of Demerara coffee to come to the northwest coast, 2,700 tons of salt, and a consignment of coconut oil, sheila, hardwoods, lime juice, 1,400 tons of sugar, 100 tons of rice, a large consignment of molasses, and a consignment of British West India rum, with a small amount of special charcoal made from tropical wood.

R-101 Disaster Spreads Gloom, Which Recalls Other Examples of British Heroism—Mr. Bennett's Policy Is Welcomed—Two Excellent Books Are Published and Two Inferior Plays Produced

By ELIZABETH MONTIZAMBERT

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(By Mail).—The terrible gloom cast by the airship disaster is only lightened by the wave of sympathy it has evoked all over the world. Here there is grateful recognition of the genuine feeling shown by all sections of the French people. I am told that within miles of Beauvais there was not a flower left in a cottage garden; they were all picked to be laid on those forty-six coffins by the humble people whose hearts were touched. A friend of Lord Thomson told me that before leaving he had frequently expressed his immense desire to take part in what he ardently hoped would be an object lesson to the Dominions on the resources of Great Britain and of the importance of linking up the Empire by air. His mind was fixed constantly across the sea and dwelt particularly on our country and the possibilities of closer co-operation by sea and air. A well-known Canadian, who was also his friend, told me the curious fact that seven or eight years ago Lord Thomson, in discussing Lord Grey, who, he said, was always recognized at once by Orientals as a great mystic, said with emphasis: "I, too, like my chief, will go out in storm and disaster."

LORD DARLING'S POEM
The great hall of Westminster has been crowded all day with a reverent procession come to do honor to the heroic dead. The general feeling was expressed by Lord Darling in the poem that appeared in The Times:

TO ENGLAND
Mourn! Not despairing, as should hope depart;
When great thy grief, be thou thy self more great;
For ease thou wast not made, lift up thy heart
By trial formed to triumph over fate.
See through thy tears heroic faces beam
Of those thy sons who for the love of thee
Assailed the skies, to fall in faith supreme
That thou the conquest they have missed shalt see.
Be brave to bear as they were bold to soar;
Abandon not the airy path they trod.
And, for their sake, endeavor thou the more
To take the way that bore their souls to God.

This subject of British heroism reminds me of a story told me a few days ago by a friend of mine. A German official of high rank in the knowledge of his country's ultimate defeat had come slowly or if anything had brought sudden conviction. He replied that there had been one moment when the foreboding came upon him swiftly. It was when the English officers, imprisoned in the fortress he commanded, ran out into their recreation ground and cheered again and again the compatriots who were raining down bombs on them. He said then: "Such men can never be beaten."

MR. BENNETT'S ATTITUDE
The Canadian Prime Minister's pronouncement has caused a widespread feeling of relief that at last someone has come forward with a concrete proposal, and Canadians are receiving many expressions of congratulation by people of all parties who do not always agree with the recalcitrant stand taken by their leaders over here. During the last few days I have heard people of every class of society telling of their satisfaction that in the midst of so much nebulous talk and fine phrases, Canada has laid her cards down and come to grips with realities which will form a basis on which to build for the future. Canadians over here feel that Mr. Bennett is leading them in the right direction, and they are very proud of the impression he is making as a statesman of courage and vision.

The reception given by the Empire Marketing Board in the spacious halls of the Imperial Institute was eminently successful, for the Prince of Wales, that "best salesman of the Empire" helped the books to receive and shock hands with innumerable guests.

MISS BENNETT'S ORATORY

Miss Mildred Bennett proved today that she possesses the art of oratory among the gifts of heart and mind that make her very popular on both sides of the Atlantic. After her successful launching of the Royal Canadian torpedo boat destroyer Skeena at the Thornycroft shipyard at Southampton, there was the usual luncheon when Miss Bennett's health was drunk. In returning thanks for the fine 18th century loving cup given her as a memento, she conveyed her brother's regret that the national mourning for the airmen prevented his presence, and gave a brief description of the waters the Skeena will navigate. It was a charming little speech and the speaker looked lovely in a brown frock and hat with a cascade of pink roses and a spray of mauve orchids. A great many members of the Canadian delegation were present, including ex-service men, General Sir John Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stevens. Among the others present were the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. Norton, the Acting Agent-General for Nova Scotia and Mr. Howard, Mr. Pauline and Mrs. Appleby, Mr. and Mrs. Huffman and Mr. and Mrs. McErmeyne, Sir George and Lady McLaren Brown and C. J. Smith.

SOLDIER ARTISTS

Among the interesting exhibitions opened during the last week was the Army Officers Art Society's Exhibition at the R.E. Galleries in Suffolk Street. It is startling to find how many soldiers are also artists. Nearly five hundred pictures, a few oils but mostly water colors, many of them of a high degree of excellence are shown and the proceeds of the exhibition go to the aid of Earl Haig's Fund for ex-service men. General Sir John A. G. Macdonald, the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stevens, Lord Baden Powell has sent me a number of his water color sketches of landscapes with horses as well as some amusing pen-and-ink cartoons, among the most noteworthy of which were pictures by Captain T. A. Fiddle, Lieutenant Colonel Keyworth, and Colonel C. L. Wilson.

TWO DELIGHTFUL BOOKS

I have lately been sent two delightful books dealing with very different yet both very typical aspects of English life. The first is the collection of diaries and letters of the celebrated eighteenth century "Ladies of Llangollen," and the second, "The Life of St. Loe Strachey," written by his widow. The diaries are edited with care and skill by that well-known authoress, Mrs. Bell, who writes her clever Anglo-Indian novels under the pseudonym of "John Travers." A member of the Irish Hamilton clan, some of whom were settled in Quebec and called their home "Hammond," after the historic Irish House, Mrs. Bell has had access to the diaries left by Sarah Ponsonby, one of the "Ladies" to Caroline Hamilton, the great grandmother of her cousin and brother-in-law Charles Hamilton, and she has used them with discrimination. The picture given of the lives of these two well-loved women who broke through the conventions of their day, ran the lacquer red bridge, his vermilion cloak making a gorgeous blaze of color against an indigo sky. Year by year the management of the Old Vic achieve miracles of harmonious stage settings with their limited means. Prospero following on the heels of Harry Hotspur in "Henry IV" shows that Mr. Gleig's versatility in addition to the many great gifts that have put him at the head of the younger generation of actors. A clean-shaven middle-aged Prospero, garbed in an Indian sage was a welcome novelty and so was the exquise diction that made the:

CANADIAN WOMAN JUDGE

The Hamwood Papers of the Ladies of Llangollen make delicious reading.

Mrs. St. Loe Strachey's account of her husband's life and the story of his connection with the Spectator, begins with their first meeting and the story of their courtship. Throughout its pages runs a very vivid picture of the political happenings during the forty-one years of their married life, happenings with which the editor of The Spectator was often so intimately connected. Of their visit to Canada in 1925, Mrs. Strachey writes: "The new friends we made in Canada were as stimulating as the old friends we met again in America."

It is impossible to estimate how much we had loved Canada. To meet our own people under our own flag, to see their new universities—McGill at Montreal and Toronto, with its beautiful campus and Hart House as its focus, was a wonderful delight. I was greatly interested in Toronto in visiting the first court I had ever seen with a woman judge—the court presided over by Dr. Margaret Paterson. No one who met St. Loe Strachey failed to be fascinated by his brilliant mind and kind sincerity of manner, and this book will be a welcome addition to those self-revelations he published in "The Adventure of Living."

THE LONDON THEATRE

M. Pagnon's world-famous play, "Topaze," has come to town. It is no fault of that brilliant young Canadian actor, Raymond Massey, that he is unable to make the sudden conversion of an honest, likeable fool into a consummate scoundrel present any appearance of truth. Possibly in the original French this vertiginous downfall seems more plausible. Personally, it left me more free to enjoy the witty lines, for the staged spectacle of the slow degeneration of the human soul is always depressing. The translation left much to be desired, especially in the first act. "Topaze" is another example of the sea change experienced by nearly all French plays when they cross the channel, but the admirable acting, the pretty frocks and the setting, which should make suburban housewives resolve to redecorate their drawing-rooms and business men their offices, will probably make up for the lack of verisimilitude in many minds.

INTERESTING FICTION

That enterprising organization, the Arts Theatre Club, has just produced George Moore's play, "The Passing of the Moon," based on his well-known book, "The Brook Kerith," where, it will be remembered, he invents for his own literary purposes the fiction that Christ did not die on the cross but lived to become a shepherd of the community of the Essenes for twenty years. Listening to the beautiful words and seeing the quiet dignity of the production one is almost tempted to overlook the tremendous fullness of such a theme. This is not the day and generation for this "Blind Mouth" to offer his inconsequent suppositions to a world engaged in plumbing vigorously the sea of knowledge for a foolhold. The performance of John Laurie as Paul of Tarsus and that of Ian Fleming as Jesus was so good as to impress the audience with the feeling that someone was digging. There was no doubt about it. Suddenly he realized that the digging was coming from just about where that lost room used to be. What did it mean? What could it mean? Impy backed away and waited. He was all ready to run. Yes, sure, he was all ready to run! You see he didn't know what it was all about.

"THE OUTSIDER" REVIVED

At the Apollo Theatre they are reviving Dostoevsky's brilliant play, "The Outsider," first produced at the St. James Theatre in May, 1923. The story of the surgeon's crippled daughter cured by a quack setter was changed to a grandiose taste. Instead of dividing the honors of the cure between the quack who only succeeds up to a point, and the father who then sees he can complete what the quack began, Mr. Norman McKinnel as the father does not disappear in the final scene when the doctor's power is revealed and then finds the power under the influence of her new-found feeling for the quack. Isabel Elsom looked beautiful as usual. It is a pity she is never asked to play the part of a character one would be interested to meet off the stage. The honors of the evening, apart from Mr. McKinnel's performance, went to Harold Huth as the temperamental bonsetter and to Stella Rho in a minor part as one of his cured patients.

HARMONIOUS SETTING

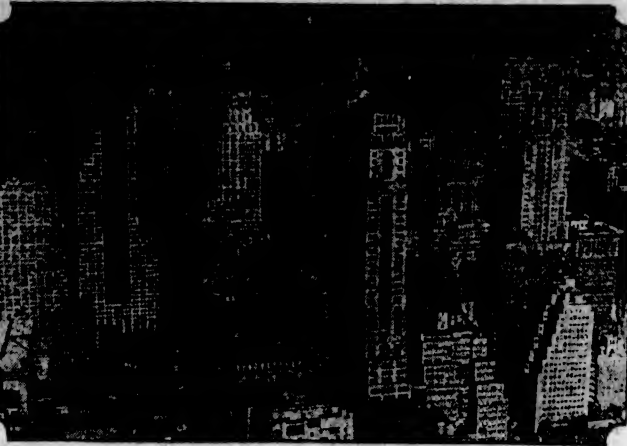

"The Tempest" at the Old Vic leaves one with a memory of John Gleig's Prospero leaning over the lacquer red bridge, his vermilion cloak making a gorgeous blaze of color against an indigo sky. Year by year the management of the Old Vic achieve miracles of harmonious stage settings with their limited means. Impy the black chipmunk was the most puzzled chipmunk that ever lived. Not only had Mrs. Impy disappeared, but a room in the house had disappeared. The appearance of the room was much more a mystery than the disappearance of Mrs. Impy. Mrs. Impy might simply be outside somewhere, but a room couldn't run away. No, sir, a room couldn't run away. That wasn't possible.

Impy was just about to go outside and look for Mrs. Impy when his keen ears caught a sound. Yes, someone was digging. There was no doubt about it. Suddenly he realized that the digging was coming from just about where that lost room used to be. What did it mean? What could it mean? Impy backed away and waited. He was all ready to run. PILOT STEALS PLANE

Posing as a flying instructor, a well-dressed man took the son of a rich merchant to the aerodrome at Hargrave Park, Sydney, Australia, and obtained an aeroplane by means of forged credentials and a faked telephone conversation. After an unsuccessful attempt to start one of the machines, the impostor and his unwitting pupil climbed into another plane and started for Katoomba. After flying for a few miles the machine crashed, but the occupants escaped injury. The bogus pilot then proceeded calmly to hire a motor truck, telling the driver to take the wrecked machine back to the aerodrome, remarking that the flying club would pay the charges. Then he said "good-bye" to his astonished pupil and disappeared.

AID FOR FLAX INDUSTRY

New Zealand's flax industry will receive Government assistance if the recommendation of the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry on unemployment is adopted. The commission urges the Government to compel the growth of an improved quality of fibre, pointing out that there would be a market for it. Restoration of the industry, the commission says, would provide permanent employment for 1,500 men.

MATE WAS TOO QUICK FOR LAUNCH SKIPPER

Passed Overboard of Bills Which He Fished Out of Bay

On a recent evening a hospital ambulance was required to take a sick man from a ship anchored off Yerba Buena Island, in San Francisco Bay. Two stewards accompanied it, and on arrival at the waterfront a launch was ready to take them off to the ship. The operator of the launch told the marine editor of The Chronicle what happened.

ROLL OF BILLS

"There was a gangway aft by the smokestack, with a bunch of men. The tide was running pretty strong and we eased alongside and got the stretcher and sick man down aboard all right. Then, in the bright light I saw something coming down on the tide. It looked strangely like a roll of bills. I ran to the rail and picked it up as it floated by. "It was a roll of bills. Quite soggy, but real money. In the glare of the bunch light I opened it and began to shake the water out. I could see the bills were all twenties, there must have been more than a hundred of them."

BEGAN TO THINK

"Then the mate, who had superintended the patient's removal and who was at the rail, let out a roar. 'Hey,' he yelled, 'gimme that roll. It's mine. I was just sweeping out my room and gave a bunch of papers a passage. Must have thrown the money with them.' "Oh, yes, I gave him the bills. And then I began to think. The mate had been aft at least fifteen minutes. His stateroom was amidsheips by the bridge. The tide would have taken perhaps two minutes to carry the wad from opposite his room to the launch. Does a tanker make sweep out his own room? Not that I ever saw. Would a roll of bills get fully water soaked in that time? No. "Oh, well, the mate may have owned the money. But I can't help believing he just thought faster than I did."

Lord Colville To Wed Miss Myrtle Gale

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The engagement of Viscount Colville of Culross and Miss Myrtle Gale, eldest daughter of the late Brigadier-General II. Richmond Gale and Mrs. Gale, of Mount Newton, Sarncliffe, will be announced shortly. Both are at present in British Columbia. Viscount Colville has a residence at Point Colville, Sarncliffe, Vancouver Island.

The third visitant and actor of a line extending back to the twelfth century, Charles Alexander Colville, was born in 1868. He served in the Battle of Jutland, and was mentioned in dispatches. The family has included many distinguished soldiers, among them the first Lord Colville, Sir James Colville, born in 1532, who served with distinction in the French wars.

MOCK MONUMENT LISTED

A monumental obelisk without an inscription but with an unusual history is being listed by Lochmaben, Scotland, as one of its sights of interest. It is in the village churchyard and was erected to denote the supposed grave of James Mounsey, a native of the district and a grandnephew of William Paterson, the Bank of England. Mounsey was a physician to the Emperor Paul of Russia, and when that unfortunate ruler was assassinated in 1801 a report arose that Dr. Mounsey had a mock funeral took place in Lochmaben Churchyard, the obelisk being erected over his "grave."

CHAPTER XXIX

Peter stood with rare hesitation in the doorway of the local room. He took a few steps forward, paused, veered toward the city desk, and again came to an uncertain halt.

"Hey, Peter, you'd better hold a caucus with yourself," the water-front man called out. "For Pete's sake, either stand up or sit down, and get out of my light. You make me nervous, shilly-shallying around like that."

"Sorry," Peter murmured absently. The waterfront man looked up, surprised at the absence of the expected retort.

"What's the matter—are you sick or something? Can't you even tell your friends to go to blazes any more?"

"Oh, all right. Mr. Peter Piper presents his compliments to Mr. Frank Dwyer and politely requests him to go to blazes. Now lay off me, Frank. I'm busy."

"You look it," Dwyer said sarcastically, but Peter did not hear him.

Lammie, a telephone headpiece over his ears, was taking a first-run story, rapidly jotting indecipherable notes on the copy paper before him. Anyone who knew Lammie could tell that it was not much of a story, by the slow rate at which his Adam's apple moved up and down to the rhythm of his gum-chewing jaws.

Peter stood watching him for a moment. Lammie's eyes looked tired and blood-shot and his face showed an unhealthy pallor. But he might look like that if he'd merely sat up all night playing poker. Was there a hint of deeper anxiety under his physical fatigue? Unconscious of Peter's scrutiny, he flung his copy pencil down with a gesture of boredom, unhooked the headpiece from his ears, and turned to the typewriter. "Well, bella, you couldn't walk up to a man and say, 'Excuse me, but haven't you committed a murder lately?'"

Peter came to a sudden decision and crashed the floor to Jimmy's desk.

"Come out to the conference room, will you?" he asked in a low voice. "I want a word in your private ear."

"What the—?" But at the look in Peter's eyes, Jimmy's irate protest was left unfinished. "Here, Russ, take the desk will you? Let me know if anything more comes in on that phone crash."

When the two men were alone, Peter filled his pipe with silent concentration. Jimmy waited a moment in rapidly growing impatience.

"Did you haul me out here for an hour of silent meditation?" he barked. "Because if so, I've an edition to get out. If you've anything to say, make it snappy."

Peter, unmoved by this outburst, continued to puff steadily, staring at the opposite wall.

"Jimmy," he said at last, "what do you know about Lammie?"

"He's a good man," Jimmy answered. "You mean, a good newspaper man?"

"Of course," Jimmy was obviously surprised at the suggestion that there could be any other definition of virtue.

"Jimmy, I've got to ask you a question or two. Peter's voice was oddly appealing. Jimmy waited a time by saying it's none of my business. You know I'm not a village gossip. But I've got to know—did Lammie take any time off about a month ago?"

"Look here, Peter," Jimmy said stiffly. "I don't make it a habit to discuss the affairs of members of my staff with other members. You know that. If you want to know anything about Lammie, why don't you ask him?"

"I'm not asking you to make it a habit. It comes down to this: Have you any confidence in me, or haven't you? If you have, you'll answer my question. If you haven't—"

"Don't be an ass," Jimmy said shortly, and Peter knew that the words were not an insult but a tribute. "Yes, Lammie was off for four days the first of the month."

"Did he give any reason, or just ask for time?"

"This doesn't go any farther—that's understood."

Peter did not even trouble to nod his acquiescence. "Lammie was off on a monumental jag. As a matter of fact, he oughtn't to touch booze. Once he's started, he doesn't know when to stop, and he hasn't the constitution to stand it. Luckily, he isn't a steady drinker. It just hits him once in so often. He knows he ought to lay off the stuff. It's a crime I had to take him off the police beat. He had enough excitement there to keep him straight. But he gets so fed up with sitting in the office that he can stand it only so long. Then he explodes from the pressure of being bored."

"Boil a ham or hock of bacon—one you can 'cut and come again.' It's economical and a treat with delicious

WHAT IS GOOD HEALTH?

One of the hardest things to understand is how a business man who wants his office or factory to run smoothly and efficiently is satisfied with the degree of health he gets from his body.

Similarly a woman shops well, keeps her house and children in order, is likewise satisfied with an average degree of health.

If this man or woman keeps fairly free from illness, has an occasional ache or pain, an occasional attack of indigestion or headache, no real time lost from work, they think that their health is all right, whereas that degree of efficiency in the office, factory, car, or home would be considered far below what it should be.

In other words our most priceless possession, our greatest asset in life, takes a position far below things that are much less important.

Now what is good health, perfect health?

Just that feeling all the time that it is good to be alive, a joy to see to think, to feel, and to be.

One of the little things or mannerisms of our old-time sprinters was to put lead in their shoes so that when they stepped into their light spiked shoes for the race, they felt that they had really no shoes on at all; they felt so light they could almost fly.

You see something of the same thing when a batter is waiting for his turn to bat in baseball. He swings two, sometimes three, bats about, and then when his turn comes to bat he discards the extra bats and his regular bat feels so light that he imagines he could connect with any ball thrown—slow, fast, or curved—because of the perfect control he has of the "light" bat.

Now good health is more than "freedom from sickness." Good health is the feeling that you are "light" in the feet, able to run if necessary, in fact with almost a desire to break into a run.

It means that you feel "bright" in the head; that you could tackle any mental problem. It means also that despite the cares of business, or home, you feel equal to doing your best in meeting them.

Sir Andrew Clark says that we should never become conscious that we have a body, that good health is a state in which work is easy and duty not too hard a trial.

We work hard for pleasure or riches. Good health will give much more than these, because it will give happiness.

FAIR STEAL MAIL VAN

One of the most audacious of recent postoffice robberies in London was the work of a carpenter and a jeweler. Evidently the jeweler had information that a particular motor van used by Benjamin Joynter, postman, would carry many registered packages of jewelry.

When the postman entered a shop to make a delivery the robbers leaped into the mail van and drove off. The robbers were captured.

A prosperous farmer, replying to a comment on the amount of money he was spending to put his son through college, said:

"Yes, it does take a lot of money, but I'd rather leave my money in my boy than to him!"

That leprosy may be conquered by vitamins is the hope offered by Dr. K. Shiga, dean of the medical faculty at Seoul, Korea. His experiments have demonstrated that vitamins prevent animals from becoming infected with the leprosy germ, which was found more than fifty years ago. Since that time efforts have been made to transmit the disease by inoculation to lower animals, but without success. This led to the conclusion that the animals were protected by some special element in their diet. Doctor Shiga inoculated healthy rats with bacilli, and they showed no signs of the disease. Later, when their food had been deprived of vitamins, they were easily infected with the disease. The conclusion is it will be possible to protect all people from the disease with vitamins in sufficient quantities.

Tonight (Nov. 1) at Midnight the Dial Telephone System Will Come Into Use

REMEMBER THE SIMPLE RULES

THE dial telephone system will come into use in Victoria tonight, November 1, at midnight. Every Victoria telephone number will be changed. The new numbers appear in the new directory.

Each of the new numbers consists of an exchange name (either "Empire" or "Garden") and four figures.

Dial the first letter of the exchange name.

Then dial each of the four figures.

Before commencing to dial, take the receiver off the hook and listen for the dial tone, a humming sound which tells you that you may begin dialing.

Keep the receiver off the hook while you are dialing.

As soon as you have finished dialing, the telephone you are calling will ring.

Or, if the called line is busy, you will hear the same "busy tone" that you do under the present system.

IF you want further instructions after the new system begins, dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator who answers. If you want "Long Distance," dial 110. (No letter to dial.)

If you want "Information," dial 113. (No letter to dial.)

If you wish to call an Albion, Belmont or Colquitz number, dial the figure "0" (Operator) and give the called number and your own number to the operator who answers.

If you wish to call a Keating number, dial 110 and give the called number and your own number to the long-distance operator who answers.

In an emergency, you may dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator to call the police or fire department, or whatever you require.

If you have a party line, to call another party on your line follow the instructions on Page Six of your new directory.

Complete instructions regarding the dial telephones appear in your telephone directory.

We also have a special dial demonstration office at 620 Fort Street (opposite the Pemberton Building) where our instructors will be glad to show you how to use the dial telephones. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY

Please Don't Make "Curiosity Calls"

We urge you not to telephone your friends merely to try out the new system. An abnormal number of calls will hinder us in getting the apparatus working smoothly.

Tonight (Nov. 1)

at Midnight the Dial Telephone System Will Come Into Use
